A unique space with a sumo ring installed inside, where you can enjoy the old food culture of the ancient Japan

-RYOGOKU- EDO NOREN

1-3-20, Yokoami, Sumida-ku, Tokyo

JR Ryogoku Station

Based on the concept of "enjoying sophisticated food culture of the Edo period", 12 Japanese-style restaurants are assembled here. In addition to the nostalgic appearance capitalizing on the vestiges and ambience of the historical old Ryogoku Station building, Edo Noren features a full-scale sumo ring installed inside under the supervision of Nihon Sumo Kyokai (Japan Sumo Association). Enjoy the fascination of Japanese food, as well as the space reproducing a town house of the Edo period.

A complex comprised of ateliers and shops where Japanese craftsmanship is integrated

JR Okachimachi Station

2K540 AKI-OKA ARTISAN

5-9, Ueno, Taito-ku, Tokyo

Shopping

"2K540 AKI-OKA ARTISAN" is a town with a particular focus on Japanese manufacturing. With an emphasis on the concepts of "products making users sense a face-to-face relationship with the producers", "products inducing enthusiasm for craftsmanship" and "products that are used for years", this complex proposes lifestyles through shops combined with ateliers and workshops where you can experience craftwork.

A market-style facility offering buyers a fine choice of foods from all over Japan

CHABARA AKI-OKA MARCHE

8-2, Kandaneibeicho, Chiyoda-ku Tokyo

JR Akihabara Station

Chabara is a marketplace for Japanese specialty products, offering buyers fine choices from all over Japan. Chabara aims at offering a place for connecting producers and consumers directly to give opportunities for experiencing the depth, tradition and lore of the food culture, not just a place for having dainties. As not only shops, but also characteristic restaurants are featured there, feel free to drop in.

JR Kanda Station

For business trips, excursions, or overtime work... what function is needed for urban accommodations? When people reset before starting a new day, they usually take three basic steps: bathing, sleeping and dressing. The concept of our accommodation is thus extremely simple, derived from representing each of the three steps by hours: 1h for bathing + 7h for sleeping + 1h for dressing. Based on this concept, this "9h" provides the functions of accommodations that suit urban life and new values of lodging that are unequalled in the world.

Food shops serving ramen and sandwiches, which are popular among young people in Japan, are assembled

JR Asagaya Station Beans ASAGAYA
3-58-1, Asagayaminami, Suginami-ku, Tokyo

"Beans ASAGAYA" is a commercial complex connected directly to Asagaya Station, which is 8 minutes from Shinjuku Station via the Chuo Line. "Beans tekute" is an area within the complex, which has just opened in July 2017. There are many new shops and restaurants, including "Hashi to Renge" supervised by a famous ramen creator of MENSHO, and "POTASTA", whose sandwiches that look like bouquets of vegetables are popular.
